

Yes, I Do See...
Patriotism Pride

“Oh say can you see, by the dawns early light.” – The light of morning shining on the American flag as we are reminded of those who put their lives on the line everyday.

“What so proudly we hail, at the twilights last gleaming.” – Those men and women who serve our country so bravely should be and are honored today throughout the country.

“Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight.” – They fight everyday through not just battles but hardships too, so that American citizens may be free to live life how it should be lived.

“O’re the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming.” – They are courageous, looking fear into the eye with pride inside all of them knowing what a great nation we will always be because of their sacrifices.

“And the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.”- The American flag not only symbolizes our nation, but our determination, our freedom, and the pride in not only the citizens but in the soldiers that keep it that way.

“Oh say does that star spangled, banner yet wave.”- As our flag flows in the air here in our country, we also know it is flowing in hearts of the soldiers and patriots with each star and each stripe.

“O’re the land of the free, and the home of the brave.”- Because of the American soldiers and patriots fighting for our country, our America is what it is today.

Every single American citizen should see and appreciate what our American patriots have done for us so that we may see America through the eyes that are filled with dignity. Ask yourself, “Do you see?” because yes, I do see.
